

Notes on Contributors

Dr. Rossen Roussev is Associate Professor in Contemporary Philosophy at “St. Cyril and St. Methodius” University of Veliko Tarnovo. He has been a Visiting Professor at the Kazakh British Technical University, Almaty, Kazakhstan, Assistant Professor at Kyungpook National University, Daegu, S. Korea, and at St. John’s University in New York. He also taught at the University of Aktobe, Kazakhstan, the City University of New York, and Mercy College in New York. He obtained his doctorate in philosophy from The New School for Social Research in New York (2005). His publications and interests are in phenomenology, philosophy of language, critical theory, and philosophy of culture.

Email: r.roussev@ts.uni-vt.bg

Dr. Tomokazu Baba is Associate Professor at Nagano Prefectural College, University of Nagano. He received a Ph.D. from Hitotsubashi University (2008) and another one from the Sorbonne Paris IV (2013). His research discipline include Contemporary Philosophy, Ethics, History of Ideas, especially 20th century French and German Philosophy, Levinas and Heidegger. Email: joiespacieuse@gmail.com

Dr. Jon Mahoney is Professor of Philosophy at Kansas State University. He has taught philosophy in Turkey, Italy, and Kyrgyzstan, and is primarily interested in political philosophy. His interests include international education and travel, and he has been pursuing these interests in Central Asia for the past several years. He received his Ph.D. in Philosophy from Binghamton University, NY, in 2000. Email: jmahoney@ksu.edu

Dr. Micah Daily received a Ph.D. in Philosophy from the New School for Social Research in 2014. Prior to that, she attained a B.A. in philosophy, storytelling, and filmmaking from Sarah Lawrence College. Dr. Daily specializes in Kantian and modern moral philosophy as applied to everyday experience. She is an established lecturer and recipient of the most influential person and excellence in teaching awards from her students at Mount Saint Mary’s University in Los Angeles where she taught philosophy and cultural studies for eight years. She currently works at the Philosophy Department of California Lutheran University at Thousand Oaks. Her research interests include: ‘Neighborliness’ and ‘quarrelsomeness’ in our developing global community and the power of rational discourse as a method to address issues of free speech and hyperpolarization in politics, on college campuses, online, and in everyday experience. Email: mdaily@callutheran.edu

Dr. Frank Passani obtained his Doctorate of Philosophy from the University of Barcelona with a dissertation on the Aristotelian and Platonic influences on the British author C. S. Lewis. His main field of interest is the relationship between Philosophy and Literature. He became a Modern Greek translator while working in Greece as a Spanish language teacher. Currently he lives in Singapore, where he teaches Spanish at the private academy Las Lilas

School. You can follow his literary reviews with English and Spanish subtitles on his YouTube channel Read This or Die! Email: francesc.badrines.passani@gmail.com

Dr. Petya Tsoneva is Associate Professor at the Department of English and American studies at “St. Cyril and St. Methodius” University of Veliko Tarnovo, Bulgaria. Her interests and publications span over postcolonial studies, English and French literature, literary responses to migration, and borderline experience. She is holder of one of the ESSE bursaries for postdoctoral research in 2015. Email: petyatzoneva@hotmail.com

Dr. Alexandra Preitschopf studied French and History at the University of Salzburg (Austria). She finished her PhD in contemporary history in 2016 with thesis “Solidarity with Palestine, anti-Zionism and anti-Semitism among Muslims in contemporary France.” After working as a research assistant and lecturer at the University of Salzburg and the University of Linz, she now teaches on behalf of the OeAD (the Austrian academic exchange programme) at Sofia University “St. Kliment Ohridski”. Her research interests include: Modern Jewish history, anti-Semitism, culture of remembrance. Email: Alexandra.Preitschopf@stud.sbg.ac.at

Dr. Mitko Momov is Associate Professor at the Department of Philosophical Sciences at “St. Cyril and St. Methodius” University of Veliko Tarnovo. He has taught courses in Eastern Philosophy, Social Philosophy, and Business Ethics. He has specialized in Denmark, India, Russia, Poland, and Hungary. His research interests are in anthropology and history of philosophy. He has published and participated in interdisciplinary projects internationally. Email: momovmitko@gmail.com

Dr. Mirena Patseva is Associate Professor in linguistics at Sofia University “St. Kliment Ohridski”. She has taught courses in Cross-cultural Psycholinguistics, Cognitive Science, Anthropological Linguistics, and Cognitive anthropology. She has also taught Bulgarian language and culture to foreigners, including for six years at Delhi University, India, and at the University of Macedonia, Thessaloniki, Greece. Email: mirena.patseva@gmail.com